The Side of Kitchen and His Party.
From a speech delivered in the Senate of the United States on the night of March 2d, 1870, by Senator Zach. Chandler, after the entire evening had been spent by Democratic Senators in lauding Jeff. Davis:

"Mr. President, twenty-two years ago to-morrow, in the old Hall of the Senate, now occupied by the Supreme Court of the United States, I, in company with Mr. Jefferson Davis, stood up and swore before Almighty God that I would support the Constitution of the United States. Mr. Jefferson Davis came from the Cabinet of Franklin Pierce into the Senate of the United States and took the oath with me to be faithful to this Government. During four years I sat in this body with Mr. Jefferson Davis and saw the preparations going on from day to day for the overthrow of this Government. With treason in his heart and perjury upon his lips he took the oath to sustain the Government that he meant to overthrow."

"Sir, there was method in that madness. He, in co-operation with other men from his section and in the Cabinet of Mr. Buchanan, made careful preparation for the event that was to follow. Your armies were scattered over this broad land where they could not be used in an emergency; your fleets were scattered wherever the winds blew and water was found to float them, where they could not be used to put down rebellion; your Treasury was depleted until your bonds bearing six per cent, principal and interest payable in coin, were offered at 88 cents on the dollar for current expenses, and no buyers. Preparations were carefully made. Your arms were sold under an apparently innocent clause in an army bill providing that the Secretary of War might, at his discretion, sell such arms as he deemed it for the interest of the Government to sell."

"Sir, eighteen years ago last month I sat in these halls and listened to Jefferson Davis delivering his farewell address, informing us what our constitutional duties to this Government were, and then he left, and entered into the rebellion to destroy the Government that he had sworn to support! I remained here, sir, during the whole of that terrible rebellion. I saw our brave soldiers by thousands and hundreds of thousands, and I might say millions, pass through to the theater of war, and I saw their shattered ranks return. I saw steamboats and steamboats and railroad trains after railroad trains arrive with the maimed and the wounded; I was with my friend from Rhode Island (Mr. Burnside) when he commanded the Army of the Potomac, and saw piles of legs and arms that made humanity shudder. I saw the widow and the orphan in their homes, and heard the weeping and wailing of those who had lost their dearest and their best. Mr. President, I little thought at that time that I should live to hear in the Senate of the United States eulogies upon Jefferson Davis living—a living rebel ennobled on the floor of the Senate of the United States!—Sir, I am amazed to hear it; and I can tell the gentlemen on the other side that they little know the spirit of the North when they come here at this day, and, with bravado on their lips, utter eulogies upon a man whom every man, woman and child in the North believes to have been a double-dyed traitor to his country."

The Side of Stevenson and His Party!
From the speech of Gen. John B. Gordon, late C. S. A., delivered a few days ago at Macon, Georgia. This is the gentleman whom Chairman Dungan brought to Ohio to enlighten our people on the subject of the ballot:

"My brother soldiers, it is my infinite pleasure in your behalf to welcome to this great State and to the hearts of the people the grand old chief. [Voice, "Hurrah for Jeff. Davis. God bless him."] It is his good fortune, after an eventful life filled with stormy scenes and vicissitudes, to look back upon a career without a blot or a stain—a life that has been spent in the service of his country and his country's liberty. Whether, when in Congress, going to the front in the arena of America's talent and ambition, or resigning that, sent to do battle for his country in Mexico and winning imperishable renown at Buena Vista; or in Mr. Pierce's Cabinet as I saw the widow and the orphan, filling that office with an ability that defied criticism; or in the U. S. Senate, where, by his purity of diction, his purity of life and his statesmanship, he won the title of "Cicero of the Senate"; or later on when he was called to the head of a new government in a stentorian voice, "God bless him," which struggled with a nerve and manhood unparalleled in history, wherever he has been it has been his fortune to wear the white mantle of spotless integrity and undiminished patriotism; and now in your presence and his I offer his congratulations and mine to his people that are still spared to us [God bless him, "a thousand voices"] in his green old age."

One day last week a couple of Jackson ladies—Mrs. Judge Miller and Mrs. G. W. Rice, took the Judge's horse and carriage and paid a visit to the family of Harmon Bunn, four miles south of town. Both ladies know all about hitching and driving horses, so they hitched the animal themselves. When young Mr. Bunn began to unhitch, he informed the ladies that "something was wrong," when one of them remarked that she noticed the animal pulled strangely, coming along. Then Harmon Bunn, who enjoys a hearty laugh as well as anybody, informed the ladies that the collar was on upside down. Our reporter snatched these facts hastily in passing through the farm, but they are reliable.

There will be a Pink Social on Friday evening of this week, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Edwards, on South Street. All are invited. Admission ten cents.

"Pink Social."
The ladies of the M. E. Church will hold a Pink Social and Musical Entertainment at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Edwards, on South Street, Friday evening, Nov. 4th. Everybody is cordially invited. Admission 10 cents. Refreshments extra. Proceeds for the benefit of the Parsonage.

Daily Observations!

WEDNESDAY.—There was a rousing Republican meeting at Oak Hill, to-day. Gen. Grosvonor did not arrive in time to make a lengthy speech, but spoke a half hour. A number from Jackson attended.

Some old man at the Rink to-night was just dying to make a speech, and wanted somebody to call him out. But there being nobody present who wanted to die, he was not called on. Mr. Thomas Kelley has moved into Julia Johnson's house on Portsmouth Street. Jesse Laird Jr. has returned home. Gen. Grosvonor and H. C. Jones had a good meeting at the Rink to-night. Gen. Grosvonor occupied most of the time, and made one of those grand speeches for which he is noted. Capt. Jones wound up with a few remarks. Both speakers greatly enthused the Republicans—the Democrats didn't like it so well. Hon. H. S. Bunday was Chairman of the meeting. Rev. J. E. Rudisill is away from home, and Rev. M. D. Vaughn led the prayer-meeting at the M. E. Church to-night.

THURSDAY.—Evan J. Evans of Bloomfield Township, called. He is going to sell out his farm and tools. Our old friend H. Wykoff called to-day. Mr. John D. Davis, of Franklin, is in town. He informed us of the death of Mrs. Mitchell, mother-in-law of Harrison Stephenson, of Hamilton Township. Rev. M. D. Vaughn, of this place, will conduct the funeral. We learn of the serious illness of a child of Rev. J. T. Stewart, of Franklin Valley Circuit. Henry Jones, of Clay, called. Poor got off a pointer to-night that is too good to be lost: A number of men were speaking of the faculty of the Prohibition Party for comparing themselves to the old Anti-Slavery party, in that nothing but the extinction of the great evil would be satisfactory. "Why," said Poor, "the old Abolitionists were willing to do the best they could—if they couldn't get slavery abolished all at once, they contented themselves for the time being by stealing a 'nigger' once in a while."

FRIDAY.—A clear and beautiful day. Three fine new buildings are nearly completed on the Owen Davis farm.

The pump at Huron is rushing out large quantities of water, and the little creek is filling up. We should think iron could certainly be made profitably at the Huron stand, if Fulton can make it after bringing water from Huron and coal from the Globe Slope. A brutal affair occurred at the Chapman mine to-day. A man named James O'Donnell assaulted young Kelly Lewis, son of Squire Alf. Lewis, beating him up in a most shocking manner. There could not, possibly, be any excuse for beating and disfiguring a person to the extent of Mr. Lewis' injuries. The latter says O'Donnell struck him with a club at first. A warrant was sworn out for the arrest of the assailant.

SATURDAY.—A slight rain, but "cold as Greenland." Mr. James Plummer called to-day. His sale, on Thursday, Nov. 10th, will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. J. S. Baker tells a good one on somebody, Jim thinks on Profs. Kinnison and Patterson, of the Public Schools. The pump at Huron is rushing out large quantities of water, and the little creek is filling up. We should think iron could certainly be made profitably at the Huron stand, if Fulton can make it after bringing water from Huron and coal from the Globe Slope. A warrant was sworn out for the arrest of the assailant.

SUNDAY.—Miss Josie Willis, a young lady, daughter of Robert Willis, died suddenly of hemorrhage, this afternoon. She attended Sunday School in the morning, and some young lady friends called to see her in the afternoon. She was in lively spirits and enjoying herself with her friends when the fatal hemorrhage set in. Mr. Willis and his family have the warmest sympathy of this community in their sudden and great bereavement. Rev. J. E. Rudisill preached an excellent sermon to-night from the text, or theme, "Thy Kingdom Come." The long, wintry evenings begin to suggest protracted meetings. There was a slight appearance of snow to-day, a few flakes falling.

MONDAY.—The funeral of James Rice was largely attended to-day, quite a number going from town. Milton Phillips called to-day on his way to Wellston. Joseph Phillips is now running a dairy at Wellston. The wife of Mr. Jones, driver of the Planning Mill delivery team, is dead, dropping off quite suddenly, with fever. Mr. Wood, of the Baling Machine works, is making the rounds, to see how the people will take hold of the enterprise. Here is a chance for our people to encourage something practicable in the way of booming the town. These lots will be beautiful ones. It does seem strange that even one day—or night—in the year, Jackson must be turned over to a mob of hoodlums who destroy property, and keep the town in an uproar. The next "halloween" night ought to see the youngsters either at home or in the lock-up.

TUESDAY.—The funeral of Miss Willis to-day at the Christian Church, was one of the largest ever held in Jackson, a long line of carriages following the remains to the Cemetery. There was a large amount of mischief done last night, a good many fellows working hard to do some damage, who would not think of working under any other circumstances.

OBITUARY.
His funeral services were conducted by Rev. H. Adams, in the Methodist church in the town of Beaver, on the 28th inst. The text used was the 10th verse of the 2nd chapter of the Book of Romans.

RICE.—James Rice was born in Lick Township, Jackson County, Ohio, December 29, 1856, and died at his residence, October 30, 1887, aged 31 years, 10 months and 2 days. He died with a full assurance of a home in heaven. He did not belong to any religious society, but he was a good Christian example set before him, and three days before he died he called his friends around his bed and requested them to read at his funeral service for him, and their prayers were answered. He was converted and praised God until the hour of his departure to that better land, where he will join in songs of redeeming love with his friends that have gone before. He leaves a wife and two children. We commend them to God's care and keeping, and when life's toils and cares are over may they be gathered to the home of the soul to meet husband and father and rejoice ever more.

Oh how sweet it will be that beautiful land, So free from all sorrow and pain, With songs on our lips and with harps in our hand, To meet on another again.

G. W. REYNOLDS.
